Radicalism and the Negro.

Redfearn, of that neighborhood. On ov them.

"He had for a long time intended to kill Redfearn; that he was first led to holds that chance, meditate it by Patterson, a Yankee, with My private opin whom he was once imprisoned for breaking open and robbing Redfeara's store; and while in jail together they agreed to kill and rob Redfearn as soon as released ; but that Patterson left the county, and had nothing to do with the murder.
When asked if Redfearn had not been a kind and good friend to them, both promptly answered yes; and Lewis added, 'Nothing but money, the devil, and what bad white men told me, ever made me kill poor Massa Jim." The brother of Coppedge was respited by Governor Caldwell, but the other two were hanged. Just before being launched into eternity, Lewis gave the following warning to all colored men, which they will do well to heed if more of them would escape his fate. The letter con-

"Calling upon his colored friends, he counseled them against all bad conduct and bad counsel, and told them that the Radical or Union party was a dangerous one, and not friendly to the black man; one, and not friendly to the black man; that if they followed the Radical leaders longer, many of them would stand where longer, many of them would stand where he now stood; that since his arrest no Republican had ever approached him, or offered him a friendly act or word."

The Newberry (S. C.) Herald publishes the following manifesto:

"Newberry, S. C., July 13, 1871.-We, the undersigned, colored citizens of Weekly. Mollohon, want to be on more friendly terms with the respectable and intelligent people of this county; and to gain gent people of this county; and to gain this end feel that we must quit the party ciety, or perform a worthy part in life, which has given, partly by our votes, such a bad government to South Carolisis of such a character is a virtuous, fixslavery in which the politician has held character can be trusted. > Murdered by Drunken Radicals. A printed circular from Pontotoc. Mississippi, states that the recent Ku-Klux invasion of that place was conducted by boys who never heard of the Ku-Klux act, and knew nothing of the odium that attaches to the name or of the alleged purposes of the Ku-Klux organization. They went into the village at night with drums, tin-pans and horns, and never dreamed of harming any one. They were fired upon without provocation, and deny that any one of them was armed or fired a pistol. When they fled the tipsy party of drunken card-players assailed and killed one of their number. Federal soldiers have reached Pontotoc, the facts are thoroughly understood, and it only remains to deplore the death of the youth Dillard, who was sacrificed to the vain terrors of the drunken Radical, Flournoy. A Good Joke. A rich joke is told of Tim Murphy, o

Augusta, now dead, which is too good to be lost : Tim was travelling on the West Point road, on a train controlled by conductor Moore and engineer Buice. One night about two o'clock the train ran into a large embankment of dirt, usually called a slide by railroad men and miners, which completely upset everything, to the injury of many passengers, including all ages, colors and sizes. The conductor and engineer, neither being injured, were going the rounds to see the extent of HATS, the disaster. They found the passengers piled about in utter confusion, one lady suspended from a window by her erinoline, hallooing in a mournful voice for help, who was rescued. Next they came to Tim Murphy, who was going on at a mournful rate.

"Well, Tim," said Conductor Moore,
"how are you getting along?" "Oh!"
says Tim, "scalded, scalded—I'm badly scalded!" Upon examination, they discovered that the cooler, containing ice everything usually kept in a first class re- water, had upset its contents upon Tim, and so great was his fright, that he imagined he was badly scalded.

> Boys and girls, if you wish to aston-ish any members of the family, or any coming guests, by some day allowing them to discover their initials neatly printed on a pear, peach or apple, as it hangs upon its branch, this is the way to carry out your plan: Just before the fruit ripens, cut the desired letters from a sheet of thin, tough paper, and paste them on the side of the fruit most expo-

Best Mode of Advertising. The best and cheapest mode of advertising in the world is that in the newspapers. Every successful advertiser will say this. The handbills among the people are auxiliaries in advertising; but it is doubtful whether, as a rule, they more than pay expenses, while there is no doubt they are a nuisance.
